Ernie Frick has been having sosme trouble getting rid of a root beer barrel he has in stock. It is a nice barrel too. He has advertised but there seems to be no takers. George Butler has two swell pool tables he would like to sell. The two have been thinking about getting together, renting a place, putting in the pool tables and the beer barrel and making the things earn their keep. Nice idea.

An old lady wearing dungarees, blouse and a straw hat entered Rose's garage the other day and bummed 10 cents from one of the boys there. She said she wanted to buy a sandwich while on her way to Hayward to work in the fruit. A little bit later a township resident passed her on the road to Newark and gave her a lift. She told him she wasn'a bound any place much but would he take her somewhere where there were a lot of people working so she could bum a few more dimes? She said she was riding freights with her husband and that he was staying with the blanket roll while she raised a little money. She said she was a better bum than he was because she was a woman and looked kind of pathetic. "Whenever he asks for a dime," she said indignantly, "someone always wants him to work two or three hours for it."

"Just because he's a druggist and has a store full of liniment is no reason for Ray Pond to think he can be too dawgone daring on a skating floor rink," says Joe California, Pond's chief rival for skating perfection at Irvington.

"Just because Joe is a young feller, he needn't think he has a corner on all the skill around here," retorts Pond.

Unbiased onlookers at the Irvington rink say they think the reason Pond and California are trying so hard to become good skaters is that they hope that when they get expert enough all the pretty girls will skate with them.

Because we give Mr. Roosevelt a well-deserved editorial whack now and again, Tom Power, archdemocrat in these parts, has taken to calling us "Old Horse-Thief" whenever he sees us. We haven't started calling him anything yet. We are a Christian and believe in turning the other cheek and besides, we can't think of any name strong enough.

We were wandering down by the gravel pit the other afternoon when we came to a pile of rocks shelving off into deep water. On the rocks was a leanto made of old boards and tin cans pounded out flat. There was an old gent in a few whiskers, a hickory shirt and a pair of pants with an immense tuck in the back to keep the wind from blowing down the top, sitting on a fruit box watching a couple of fish lines.

He said his name was Hennepin Noonsummer, believe it or not, and that most folks just called him Hen. He said he came to California from the Great Smoky mountains because the flies got so bad back there. Asked about his politics, he said he had a peaceable disposition but that back home he could "whup" any man his weight. He said further it didn't pay to belong to any party because no near sighted man can tell a Republican from a Democrat these days anyway. He claimed he liked this country around here because a man can get by without doing anything much. Said he reckoned he'd stay in Niles till the snow flies. When told the snow doesn't fly here, he said that was all right with him and to drop by and have a mess of fish with him some time. We said we would.

Congratulations are due Judge J. A. Silva of Niles. Tuesday he became the father of a baby boy. Everyone who met the judge on that day was greeted with a smile that stretched from Niles to the Dumbarton bridge.

DOUGHERTYS RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dougherty have returned from a trip through the southern part of the state during which they were entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. C. DeVighne at Santa Barbara. Dr. DeVighne, for many years commissioner of public health in Alaska, is the co-author of "Pole Star." He and Mrs. De Vighne were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty at their home here.

CENTERVILLE—Harry De Leon was inducted into office Tuesday night as president of the Lions club in a ceremony held at the Black n' White restauran.

De Leon thanked the members of the organization for the trust and confidence displayed by the club in electing him. He promised his best efforts in behalf of all clb projects during the coming year.

Warm praise for the co-operation received from members during the past year was given by Judge Allen G. Norris, retiring president. He reviewed the activities of the club and declared the pleasure he had received in acting as its president.

Other new officers installed Tuesday were Earle Hygelund and George Silva, directors; Jack Boyd, tail twister; Joe Bauhofer, lion tamer; Loren Marriott, treasurer; Manuel Lewis, secretary; Vernon Gould, first vice president and Tony Lewis, second vice president.

John Lowman was initiated to membership in the organization.

Marriott gave an informal report of the financial result of the celebration. He eclared that the club had stayed out of the red. Members expressed themselves as satisfied with the result inasmuch as large revenue from a one-day celebration had not been expected.

I. D. E. S. Directors Busy With Plans for Big Fiesta

WARM SPRINGS—Preparations were started Tuesday for the great Holy Ghost celebration which will be held at the state headquarters of the I. D. E. S. lodge here on September 12 and 13.

At the regular meeting of the state board of directors, executive officers and finance committee of the I. D. E. S. sub committees were appointed and steps taken to care for the large crowd expected.

The fiesta will be followed by the annual convention of supreme council which will be on September 14 and 15 at the home.

The organization has resolved to enter a float and participate in the S. P. R. S. I. parade which will be held in Oakland August 9.

CROSSING WRECK BRINGS BIG FEED

NILES—The biggest impromptu watermelon feed Niles ever saw was observed Monday morning when a Southern Pacific passenger train crashed into a produce truck operated by Tynoo Bros., Turlock growers, at the Vallejo street crossing.

W. Tynoo, driver of the truck, approached the crossing on the way to San Francisco markets with about six tons of ripened fruit aboard. He saw the crossing signal operated, stopped, waited but saw no train coming. A construction engine on the track nearby led him to believe that it was the cause of the signal's working, so he started across the track. The fore part of the truck was safely across when the passenger train struck.

Watermelon flew through the air in every direction.

Children, grownups and laborers on the new underpass came running.

Before the train was hardly past, the crowd began devouring and carting home the broken fruit.

Few melons remained unbroken.

The Tynoo brothers said they had recently purchased the truck, new, for $6000. It was badly damaged.

No one was hurt.

When the train came to a halt, passengers piled off and dashed for the broken melons, eating along with the local residents. The engine was left at Niles for a thorough cleaning.

NILES FARMERS DIP WHOLE COTS

NILES—Due to the inability of securing pickers and pitters for the heavy local apricot crop, the township farmers have resorted to dipping and drying their fruit whole. The hot days of last week have ripened the fruit prematurely and the shortage of labor has presented a problem. This process of drying the whole fruit has not been used for several years, but has proved to be very satisfactory under similar conditions. The farmers expect, in this way, to save a great deal of fruit which would otherwise be ruined.

DELEGATE REPORTS N. D. G. W. MEET

The Laura Loma Parlor, N. D. G. W. held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. Isabelle Cahill, newly elected president of the order. A report of the convention recently held in Stockton was given by Delegate Mrs. Catherine Plumb.

After the meeting, cards were played and refreshments were served. Ione Cahill, Rose Fournier and Martha Crane were the prize winners.

NEW TELEPHONE SYSTEM FOR DECOTO

DECOTO—The building for the automatic dial system was completed last week. It is a stucco structure, ten by twelve feet and was constructed by Antone Costa. The Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company was given a fifteen year lease by J. L. Olson, owner of the property.

The installation of the apparatus is to begin immediately and is expecte dto be ready for operation by the end of August. Instead of the limited service between 7 a. m. and 10 p. m. Decoto is to have all-night service.

Amaral Opens Campaign In Washington Township

NILES—John J. Amaral launched his active campaign for supervisor this week in Washington Township.

Mr. Amaral addressed a gathering of several hundred at the Newark Holy Ghost fiesta Sunday.

Amaral's campaign workers have pointed out that he has been urged repeatedly by his friends to run on a platform of business-like government.

Amaral is president of the county junior chamber of commerce and is active in business organizations at Pleasanton. He declares he will devote himself to active participation in county business if elected and will make every effort to increase economies of government.

"The supervisor's post requires constant vigilance over all expenditures, great and small," he avers. Payrolls should be examined thoroughly and the countless small items of expense gone into with thoroughness. In many cases it is the multitude of small expenses that make government operation so costly.

Irvington Junior Group To Seek New Sidewalks

IRVINGTON—Plans for obtaining a concrete sidewalk from the center of town to the Irvington school were discussed Monday night at the regular meeting of the Irvington Chamber of Commerce.

A committee comprised of George Correia, J. R. Silverra, Joe Leal, Joe Corey and Allen Hirsch was named to consult property owners along the proposed route regarding the expense of putting in walks.

The group also decided to see to it that weeds which are now growing high along the present gravel walk are cut down. Joe California volunteered to see that workmen are obtained to do the job.

California reported at length on the plans for the skating party which was held Wednesday night and O. N. Hirsch reported that his committee had interviewed county road authorities regarding improvement of the crossings on the edge of town.

The committee in charge of erecting street signs and numbering Irvington houses reported their work had come to a halt pending the tracing of a city map which will be necessary for the completion of the job. Ben Cramer volunteered to see that the tracing is accomplished.

Crews Busy on Detour For Vallejo Crossing

NILES—Work on the $800,000 road project here gained impetus this week when foremen were brought from other jobs and construction crews grew larger and larger.

Work this week has been largely on the highway detour which will be in use by traffic while the Vallejo street underpass work is under way. Pilings are being driven for the underpass.

The California Utilities Corp. plans to relocate 300 feet of pipeline in connection with the work, says F. E. Glassbrook, local manager. Cost of the job will go mostly fo rlabor.

While only 35 men were working on the entire project on Monday, the number was expected to increase to near 100 during the next few days.

Temporary quarters for engineers and timekeepers have been constructed on Vallejo street and workmen are being brought from the state employment agencies.

Judge Allen G. Norris, T. J. Power and E. A. Ellsworth report a number of suits over the right of way being settled.

Property owners across Alameda creek are considering circulation of a petition to prevent the tearing out of the bridge which will cut them off from a direct route to Niles.

Oil companies are eyeing the land adjacent to the corner where the new highway will cut the canyon highway. There is evidence that there will be a scramble for such property as is available for service stations.

3 [illegible] Persons Attend Newark's Holy Ghost

NEWARK—Three thousand persons from all parts of southern Alameda county turned out for the Holy Ghost celebration in Newark on Saturday and Sunday.

The San Jose S. W. band provided music on the grounds and a carnival furnished the amusement.

NEWARK—Triumph was at last Newark's on Sunday when the team met Irvington in a post season game. The score was 8 to 6.

The high point of the game came in the eighth frame when Louis Silva of Newark slapped out a home run with three men on base, thus ruining Irvington's one run lead. Irvington scored one more run in the ninth and the game was over.

Pretell and Silverra pitched for Newark, allowing 11 hits. Rodriguez, Irvington hurler, allowed eight hits.

CALIFORNIA
News of the Week

San Jose.—Miss Frances Chargin, San Jose's "two-minute judge," has been appointed referee of the State Industrial Accident Commission in Los Angeles, the first woman ever to receive such an appointment. In 1934 she sat as the first woman ever to occupy a Superior bench in Santa Clara County.

Paradise (Butte Co.)—Prompt treatment with serum probably saved the life of James Nunneley, 4, who was bitten by a rattlesnake while playing on the front porch of his home here. The snake crawled onto the porch through a hole and bit the child in the thumb. An older brother killed the reptile.

The Governor based his action on a belief the parole of the convict who had been sentenced to life for shooting his wife was done without the proper notices having been given to interested officials of the county in which the crime was committed.

San Francisco.—Widespread discharge of State employes just prior to the effective date of the State Civil Service Act was ruled illegal by Superior Judge I. L. Harris. She will be restored to her position and will be paid $150 a month by the State from the time of her dismissal.

Los Angeles.—The People of the State of California vs. fifty-three fighting roosters was the unusual title of a lawsuit filed in Superior Court here. The suit is an aftermath of a Sheriff's raid on a cockfight in the bed of the San Gabriel River near Downey. Eight men were arrested, fined $25 and their roosters confiscated. The suit asks that court authority be given to sell the feathered fighters.

Sacramento. — Percentage girls cannot be employed in California establishments which serve liquor, Chairman Collins of the State Board of Equalization has ruled. At the same time he announced that the board will make a check-up to determine how the law prohibiting minors from working as entertainers in liquor establishments is being enforced.

Sacramento.—More than 60 lightning-set brush and timber fires raged over thousands of acres in California last week, calling out all available CCC units and volunteers to fight the scattered flames. Six fires roared through heavy growth in Calaveras county; more than a dozen in southwest Tuolumne county, where 20,000 acres were blackened; at least 22 in San Benito and lower Monterey county; 15 in the region surrounding Bakersfield; two in Shasta county and at least one each in El Dorado and Butte counties.

Whitney, six; Telescope Peak, in Death Valley region, four; Murray Canyon, Palm Springs, four, and Mt. Antonio and Owens River Valley, one each.

THEY SWAY THOUSANDS

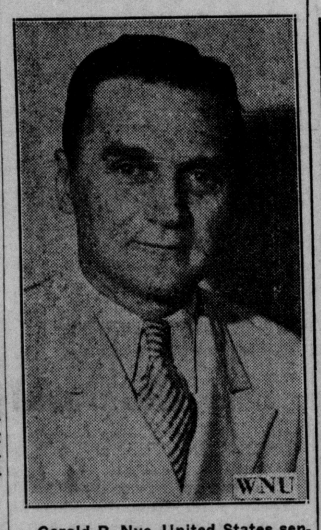

Rev. Gerald K. Smith, rabble-rousing crown prince in the dynasty of the late Huey Long, harangued Townsendites in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, until his voice sank to a mere whisper. Then the Rev. Gerald Smith gave way to the mild-mannered, matter-of-fact Dr. Francis E. Townsend, idol of the throng. Symbolic of the expected coalition between Huey Long's Share-the-Wealth followers and the Townsendites was the appearance of Dr. Townsend (left) and Rev. Smith on the speakers' platform.

Beach Togs Tell Fabric Trends

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT IS not enough that beach outfits and active sports clothes be stylish and pleasing to the eye. It is not enough that they be merely practical and utilitarian. To qualify 100 per cent to the good your sun, sand and surf and your general outdoor play-ground togs must be every whit as practical as they are chic and eye-appealing.

The cunning bathing and beach suit of gay print shown to the right in the picture is just that—thoroughly as practical as it is charming to look upon. Its claim to practicality is due to the fact that the sanforized-shrunk cotton of which it is made carries the promise of non-shrinking no matter how often it may happen to be water soaked. This very modern way of processing cottons and linens so that they cannot skin and linens so that they cannot shrink insures your bathing wardrobe all season long, which, of course, means no-end satisfaction in the final analysis of clothes logic.

Practical from another point of view, too, is this charming beach and swim ensemble, in that it is one of the very new and goodlooking halter bathing suits with wrap-around skirts to tie on when you go meandering down the beach as fair maidens are wont to do.

Another story of achievement in the way of combining the practical with the highly chic and attractive in sports clothes is told in the new weight-controlling ensemble that allows one to lounge about the house, play ping-pong and go about home duties while accomplishing the magic of shelving the extra poundage one longs to discard preparatory to getting one's self into shape for that svelte lithe appearance in one's bathing and beach suit. This miracle-working avoirdupois reducer is pictured in the foreground. A smart gym gob suit it is, made of an exceedingly good-looking crepe-texture rubber that keeps the pores of the body open and encourages a healthy perspiration. When that happens you can start making your swimming dates for to your glee and satisfaction the pounds will begin to roll off until normal weight is reached. These crepe-textured rubber gym gobs are styled in three comfortable pieces—slacks, shorts and shirt.

Big news and no doubt about it, is the beach and swimming suit in the new and startling front page newspaper print cotton. See it pictured to the left in the group. Prints this season are noted for novelty and certainly this newspaper-print cotton captures first honors in that respect. The fitted halter top which is lined with white wool jersey for extra comfort and proper contour, buttons at the front to the waistband of the one-piece wool-lined skirt and maillot. The separate cape has an attached hood and is lined with terry cloth throughout.

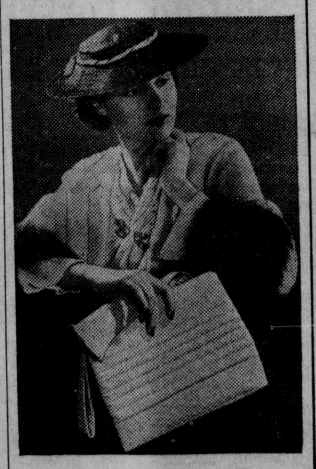

Very smart beach outfits of white pique are among the season's latest models. A stylish ensemble includes shorts, worn under a one-piece tunic that fastens all the way down the front (may be left open at will) with pique-covered buttons. A big floppy white fabric hat is worn.

Another interesting item is the hat made of pique that is nothing more than a brim which ties at the back. It is without crown and can be untied and flattened out to be washed and ironed.

CHIC FOR SUMMER

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

According to the modern way of thinking a costume is only as smart and correct and goodlooking as the accessories worn with it. In other words it is the accessories that make the costume and this is the challenge that fashionables must meet these times. In the matter of observing the little niceties of accessory details the lady in the picture is costumed to perfection. Her exquisitely ladylike straw hat is an exponent of smartest millinery fashion. The fur that borders the sleeves of her jewel-clasped crepe frock carries a convincing message in regard to the importance of "summer furs" in the mode. Her long simple slip-on suede gloves are eminently correct. As to the handsome bag she carries it is the accent supreme of chic.

Polka Dots in Style.

Mannish little polka dotted silk cravats and belts are worn with soft frocks and polka dot scarfs walk out with sports coats.

FEATHERS IN STYLE FOR HAT TRIMMING

Feathers are becoming more and more important as trimming for hats, according to Erik Braagaard, the young Danish milliner whose recently established Paris house has had unusual success.

Braagaard even makes entire hats and headdresses of feathers. He takes a single yellow bird of paradise and curves it cleverly about the head, holding it in position with double bands of black velvet that cross the back of the head. This hat designer is building crowns higher and higher for morning and sports wear. The conical or thimble crowns, likewise are featured on some of the afternoon hats while others are trimmed with bunches of fruit or flowers.

Late Offerings of Prints Copy Design of Wall Paper

Some of the new prints look like wallpaper designs. Vertical stripes of flowers, massed together, are printed on pastel colored backgrounds. Other materials are printed with enormous sprays of flowers or vines in conventional wallpaper patterns. One house has applied a leaf and vine design in black organdy on a dinner dress of white organdy. The veins in the black organdy leaves are etched in shiny black beads.

Bracelets Combine Both Real Beauty and Utility

Since costume jewelry has come rushing back into style, there are all sorts of new bracelets on the market. For evening wear there are wide bands of gold or silver set with large, square precious stones. The largest center stone opens up to reveal a miniature powder compact and puff, while the stones on either side open to show paste rouge and eye shadow. The clasps of the new bracelets are small lipsticks.

The Dictator's Job

Dictators have the hardest job in the world, which is to keep on dictating. Sooner or later they are caught in a vicious circle, because people—over a long period—can no more be stopped from thinking than they can be stopped from breathing. A dictatorship tightens and tightens and then either (a) loosens up in order to survive, or (b) breaks down in counter-revolution or counter - dictatorship. In each case the people, to some degree, are thrown back on their capacity for self-government — John Gunther in Cosmopolitan.

A Lesson in Loyalty

When a dog experiences that transition we konw by the stark name of death it affects us the more poignantly because he goes over the horizon with such magnificent valor.

I have had my heart wrenched many times by a close-up of this extraordinary courage. Invariably dogs meet what mankind regards as the terror of terrors with a beautiful complacency, an instinct, if you will, that should hearten us all for a journey that is inevitable.

Dogs have taught those of us who love them many excellent things. Foremost, perhaps, is the divine quality, loyalty. They have also taught the art of forgiveness and forthright honesty.

So it does not seem at all strange to me that they should help us to banish fear of the last enemy. I had a dog whose obedience to my command sent him to death under a careening joy-rider's wheels. He crawled back to me, licked my hand as though to say, "I don't blame you!" and stiffened in death.—O. O. McIntyre in Cosmopolitan.

Determination

To think we are able is almost to be so; to determine upon attainment is frequently attainment itself. Thus earnest resolution has often seemed to have about it almost a savor of omnipotence.—Samuel Smiles.

Mrs. Myers Gives Rare Old Gingerbread Recipe

NILES — Mrs. Neil Farrington Myers has been trying the recipes of local women which have appaered in this column from time to time. She tried Mrs. Pond's doughnut recipe and a couple of Mrs. T. J. Power's. Now she contributes one of her own. It is one that her grandmother Farrington used in New England. Gingerbread, Mrs. Myers points out, is good in summer and winter. It is an excellent picnic dessert.

RECIPES

Mint Pear Salad

1 bottle whipping cream
1 package mint jell-o
1 can pear halves

Make the mint jell-o, using the juice from the canned pears, as far as it will go, instead of using all water. Lay the pear halves in the jell-o and place it in the refrigerator so that it will jell.

Serve with whipped cream.

English Muffins

1½ cups hot milk
3 tablespoons butter
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 ounce compressed yeast
¼ cup warm water

Add the butter and salt to the hot milk. When it becomes lukewarm add the yeast dissolved in warm water. Stir in the flour and let it rise in a warm place until light and spongy, or about two hours.

Grease twelve large muffin rings. Fill the rings half full of batter, and let it stand until it just begins to rise. Heat the griddle and place the filled muffin rings on it. Let them bake slowly, until slightly brown, and well risen at the bottom. Turn on the other side with a pancake turner and let them bake slowly until well done.

When cool, cut in half, crosswise, toast cut side a golden brown, butter well and serve hot.

Sauerbraaten

Take a small one-half cup of vinegar to three pounds of pot roast.

1½ cups water
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1 bay leaf
1 dozen pepper corns

Boil the above all together and pour over the meat, and slice two medium sized onions over it. Let it stand over night, and then take the meat out and brown. Use the liquid from the meat in the pan with the gravy.

Veal Ragout

2 pounds breast of veal, cut up
¾ cupful bread crumbs
1 large onion cut fine
1 teaspoonful paprika
Salt and pepper
½ cup sour cream

Sear the meat in a little fat. Do not put all the meat in at once, as it will stew without browning, so add a little at a time, as the others become browned. Add the onion and cook until light brown. Add paprika, salt and pepper, cover and lower the flame, and let it steam for several minutes. Add two cups hot water and let it simmer for an hour. Add the bread crumbs and let it simmer for another hour. Stir occasionally. Add the sour cream just before serving.

Rice Muffins

2½ cups flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons melted butter

Beat the egg. Add three-fourths cup of cooked rice to the one-half cup of milk. Mix with the above quickly, and bake in an oven 375-340 degrees F. Make muffins small.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Dust potatoes in flour before frying them, and they will brown much better and the taste will be improved also.

Wash utensils used in making cakes in cold water, as they will become clean, and will be a lot easier than washing in hot water.

Here are the definitions of the different methods of cooking, that may come in handy some time.

How to Measure Sugar

Do not shake or tap the cup in which you are measuring granulated sugar a sit packs so. Put the sugar in by the spoonfuls, and level it off. If there are lumps in confectioners' or brown sugar, roll or sieve it before measuring. Always pack brown sugar solidly before leveling it.

Hint on Cleaning Silver

The ideal thing to use for cleaning silver is a powder puff, with a silver polish that you like especially well. The puff helps to make your silver nice and shiny and is also very easy to use.

When the bristles of a carpet sweeper become soft, take the brush o utof the sweeper, and dip it up and down in a solution of a little baking soda in some hot water. Let the brush dry in the sun.

To keep apples from losing their shape, perforate the skins before they are put in the oven to bake. Four or five perforations will be enough. Bake the apples in a moderate oven.

You can now get aluminum pans that are marked on the side to indicate the amount of material used. These pans come in threes. They contain a half quart, a quart, and a quart and a half sizes.

There is a new product on the market now for pie making. It is a specially treated wrinkle proof canvas and is used to great advantage when rolling out rich pastries. The canvas is used to cover the rolling pin and another piece can be used on the table top without the use of a board, as the cloth will not slip. By using this canvas, the dough will not stick to the board or roller.

Tea strainers and teapots should never be washed in soapy water. Always wash in clear warm water.

Some women are coming more and more to realize that they are human beings as well as women . . . nice huh?

The Farmer's Corner...

BY RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

According to an amusing tradition, it was long the custom among Oriental people, during the hot summer months, to wrap themselves in additional clothing—extra robes, coats and any other wearing apparel available—to keep the heat out.

If extra clothing afforded protection against the chill of winter, it was reasoned, then it should also give protection against the blistering rays of summer sun.

But modern-day man, who would laugh heartily over the story of the Chinese and his many suits of clothes, may, in turn, seem slightly laughable to the Oriental. For the average American citizen whether he knows it or not, lives under five layers of government—both summer and winter—and not only wears more governmental clothing, but more expensive governmental wrappings, than any other citizen on the face of the globe.

In addition to federal and state governments, there are, of course, county and city governments and school district governments— and often several special assessment districts to boot. And in alifornia, at the moment, the average citizen is subject to 177 tax levies —two by local governments, 101 by the state, and 74 by the fedeal government, exclusive of processing taxes and special assessments.

What are factors which have contributed to this leaning tower of taxation?

If every citizen favors reducing taxes—and, theoretically at least, every citizen does—why do tax bills increase, instead of decrease?

* * *

Basically, taxation is the balance on the scale of huma ndesires.

If the tax load is excessive, and the scales are off-balance, it is a reflection of excessive public demands—a desire for too many governmental services.

The federal government, for example, performs thousands of services today which were unknown in the days of Washington and Jefferson. The state of California has more than 400 distinct governmental functions alone. And the County of Los Angeles has 771.

And all of these services, or at least the great majority, came as a result of public demad; perhaps the demand came from minority groups, in many instances, but if such were the case it was usually an organized, insistent demand, with little o rno organized opposition. In short, the taxpayer was passive—content to "let the politicians run the government," unmindful of the fact that new services inevitably mean new taxes.

Among the "causes" of high taxes may be listed, briefly: Increase in number of governmental services; expansion of existing services; substitution of taxes for direct service charges; increase in population and territorial expansion; increase in number of taxing units; increases in technical personnel, calling for higher salaries, etc.; increases in subsidies and allocations to weaker units of government to permit expansion of their services; natural extravagance and administrative inefficiency; unsound methods of borrowing for improvements, wars, depressions and other emergencies; relief and welfare work; and a governmental mania to "keep up with the Joneses," with smaller branches of government imitating the ambitious undertakings of larger governmental units.

Whether farmer or business man, worker or employer, every citizen must make frank admission of his part—either knowingly or unwittingly—in building the present top-heavy governmental structure before taxes can be effectively reduced. Having made confession, the question then is: "Where to cut?" "Whose ox is to be gored?" "What services do we want more than the money they cost?"

Co-Operatives Borrow Total of $15,000,000

OAKLAND—The Berkeley Bank for Cooperatives, one of the four units of the Farm Credit Administration serving California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona, has just passed the $15,000,000 mark in financing farmer cooperatives in these four states. Dr. E. A. Stokdyke, president of the bank, announced today that while disbursements had attained this huge sum, repayments have been received to the extent of $8,200,000 leaving a balance outstanding in loans of $6,8000,000.

Three types of loans are made by the Berkeley Bank for Co-operatives to true farmers' cooperatives such as marketing and purchasing associations, mutual water companies and mutual fire insurance companies. These groups may borrow for operating purposes, building and equipment and to finance commodities in storage. Interest rates charged by the bank are low in keeping with the general farm financing program carried on by the Farm Credit Administration.

A study of the volume and types of loans made by the bank during its operation of less than three years shows that poultry cooperatives have borrowed 21 per cent of the $15,000,000 so far advanced.

R. F. C. FIGURES FOR CALIFORNIA

In California, from February 2, 1932, to December 31, 1935, the reconstruction finance corporation disbursed a total of $405,704,651.15, it was announced by Donald Reashaw, state director for the national emergency council. This amount does not include loans to federal agencies.

It was also revealed that for the same period, $225,209,841.83 of the above amount had been repaid.

DESIGN FOR CHAMBER ACTIVITY

The Niles Chamber of Commerce has adjourned for the summer and will reconvene the second week in September. The chamber has at present no special program for fall and winter. The time is ripe to do something for Niles and Washington Township. We have been too much inclined to let nature take its course, relying on manifest advantages to attract population and business.

The Township Register suggests two constructive enterprises for community improvement the chamber can sponsor, and the program is one which should elicit support of the junior chamber as well.

1. Incorporate a sanitary district embracing the whole township and providing for garbage collection and disposal.

2. Agitate for construction of a direct state highway from Merced to Washington Township, following the Corral Pass route.

The first was suggested originally by H. Lovell Scott, long a leader in civic enterprise and a member of the chamber.

The second is the idea of D. A. Rees, a progressive citizen who was born in the country the new road would traverse, has studied the situation and knows well the plan is practicable.

The garbage question may any day become urgent if the county health authorities should close the present noisome garbage dumps, which has been intimated. A sanitary district might operate entirely without levying taxes, meeting expenses from a modest service charge.

The proposed new highway would cross the San Joaquin river at Merced, striking northwest by natural grade, crossing the divide at Corral pass and entering Washington Township, proceeding by the existing highway to Oakland. This direct route would divert the vast San Joaquin valley traffic which now follows the highway north through Manteca, west through Tracy, Altamont Pass and Dublin Canyon. The road would shorten the route between Oakland, the valley and Los Angeles by 20 miles.

These are projects in which all civic bodies of the township may join. A lot of work will be required. Some organization must take the lead. The Township Register will give whole-hearted support.

We constantly read about the terrible horrors of the next war.

Must there be a "next war?"

Man proudly considers himself far above the lower animals; but when he uses his intelligence to invent new and terrible ways to kill his fellow man, we agree with Walt Whitman: "I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid."

Haile Selassie recently informed the League of Nations of the deadly peril that threatens all peoples which engage in future wars, by describing what recently happened in his own country.

It is not only soldiers who will suffer. All the population will be attacked. Equipment is now installed on airplanes to exterminate great masses of population in warring countries with deadly gases, which cause terrible pain, and warring nations will poison both food and water.

A new world war would seem to mean humanity gone mad.

Needless to say, we do not want war. But H. G. Wells declares that civilization is headed for disaster unless a system of world control along federal lines is built up.

* * * *

". . . . . Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light or transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than abolish the forms to which they have been accustomed."

The framers of the declaration of independence, besides being middle class idealists, were also pretty shrewd politicians with a better than usual unerstanding of human nature. They wrote the above paragraph into the famous document in the realization that most men are too concerned with their small, personal affairs to spend any time in actively creating revolution.

In these days, when there is much hysterical talk about abolishing the governmental forms which have stood us in good stead thus far, it is comforting to remember that those words of Jefferson are as true now as they were then.

* * * *

Unless Washington Township's Republicans show a little more life for a change they will deserve the defeat they will get in the 17 local precincts this fall. They have a candidate who seems to be gaining some measure of popular favor. They live in a county which has contributed one of the country's strong Republican leaders. Their community has about 4000 registered voters. Yet with all this, there hasn't been a sign of any Republican club organizing to carry the township for Landon. The Democrats have a good organization. They meet every month. They exchange campaign information. They contribute funds. They see to it that their activities appear in the newspapers.

* * * *

It is to be hoped that the county road authorities will take prompt action on the complaints of Irvington residents regarding the condition at the railroad crossings on the Mission road.

Old timers at Irvington say the bumpy crossings have been there for eight or ten years. They are deceptive to the eye and motorists unacuainted with them are in danger of losing control of their machines when they strike them.

In a day when a great deal of emphasis is being placed on safe crossings, the road men cannot very well ignore pleas for improvement.

* * * *

Harry De Leon steps into the presidency of the Lions club with the best wishes of all who know him. De Leon has been a hard and active worker both for Centerville and the township. He has a lively personality and the club should do well during the next year under his direction. The township owes a deep debt to Judge Allen G. Norris for his work with the club during the past year. Meetings under his direction have been well attended and the group's activities have shown marked growth.

* * * *

We see by the paper where the Lions club and some others will have to take down their highway signs to conform with some new regulations. A Lions club, Rotary club, Kiwanis or any other such sign is small, comparatively neat and obstructs no view on the highway. It seems too bad to interfere with such mementoes of local pride and leave the immense billboards to cut off every motorist's outlook.

* * * *

"Home Towns in Alameda County," Mrs. Gladys Williamson's booklet, has received a great deal of favorable notice since its appearance. For the first time in years, Niles has been given some really worthwhile space in a publicity booklet about Alameda county. The same can be said for the treatment of other Washington Township communities.

* * * *

The Sunday Tribune carries an editorial announcing to the world that if the national debt were cashed into silver dollars, they would stretch 32 times around the world at the equator. It is to be hoped that the WPA doesn't read the Tribune or it may use the idea for a new project.

* * * *

Decoto is to be congratulated on its new telephone building. The change in the system is a step in the right direction. This crank and rang-off ritual that we all go through in most of the township is a blot on the escutcheon of progress.

* * * *

Two accidents on Monday morning both at railroad crossings in Niles show the need for the underpass and road work which is being done. Both accidents could have been avoided if the road work had been completed.

THE RHYTHM OF THE UNIVERSE

Through Kansas, Montana and old Minnesota,
Vast sections and prairie lands of Dakota,
Grain-crested waves on a wide, golden ocean—
Billowed and swelled with a turbulent motion.
Sleek cattle were grazing, near granaries o'erflowing,
And rich harvest air was fitfully blowing—
A farmer immersed in deep meditation—
Stood viewing his acres with proud admiration,
Knowing his people were free, and from harm—
On his fertile and prosperous mid-Western farm.
Secure in the knowledge, and righteous elation—
That by sweat of his brow he would help feed a Nation.

* * * * * *

Driven along on the mad winds that carry—
The homestead lands leaving naked prairie,
Arid and parched the top-soil is drifting,
Ground into powder, in crevises sifting.
No sheaves for the thrasher, no gleaning or mowing,
The farmer who helped furnish bread to a Nation,
Visions his future with no consolation.

Where the full-yielding acres lies death and destruction,
And Nature's attending to over-production;
Now, with the time for seeding and tilling,
The face of the prairie is tossing and milling,
In the wake of the locust no green blade is showing,
Stricken, he sees there's no reason for sowing;
With back to the wall in grim realization—
Facing the terror of stark devastation,
The man of great pride who produced for a Nation,
Must wait . . .for his Country to dole out a ration!

NELL FARRINGTON MYERS,
In Niles Canyon, Niles, California.

City Life

AS SEEN FROM WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP

Te seats are hard but the show is usually worth it.

The Greek theater at Berkeley on the U. C. campus is a pretty busy place during the summers. Last week-end, for instance, the San Francisco Opera Guild performed Gilbert & Sullivan's "Gondoliers." They had a big crowd, the seats were only two-bits and even the knowledge that William Randolph Hearst donated the theater to the university couldn't rob the occasion of its enjoyability. We didn't see Harry Salz there but he should have been.

* * *

Patrons of the arts probably would be shocked at such a comparison, but the exhibit of Lyon Feininger's work at Mills College gallery reminds us definitely of Bill Helm's recent program of audiscopiks at the Niles movie show.

Lyon Feininger, so far as we have been able to find out, is a German artist whose most productive period is in the recent past. He seems to work in both water color and oils. There is no point in a country boy discussing his paintings and we don't know now whatever possessed us to go to his exhibit, but the thing about it that struck us as curious was the way the painter makes simple designs on flat canvas stand out as though they had a third dimension. The trick is uncanny.

Communists in the Eastbay cities for the most part seem to be youngish persons with no hint of humor about them. Communists at Carmel, however, don't mind kidding the movement once in a while. Here's an anti-capitalist song, to end all anti-capitalist songs, which came from some of the Monterey liberals recently.

To the tune of the Flying Tapeze.

A child of the laboring classes am I,
I've seen my dear playfellows sicken and die
Hung by their elbows and boiled in lye
By a man in a shiny silk hat.

He grinds up their bones for to make his concrete
And mixes his mortar with blood
And the long silken curls of the prettiest girls
He bakes into bricks made with mud—
Ohh—
Chorus—
He rides through the streets in the shiniest cars
This villain who obviously should be behind bars
He kills little children and seduces their mas
And no one does nothing to him!

The new picture "San Francisco" ignores the euphemism by which the disaster of 1906 has become known to all loyal residents of the city as "the fire." The picture comes right out and features the earthquake. Not satisfied with that, the director makes the quake ast 20 minutes. which is improving on nature quite a lot.

No other natural catastrophe has the power of stark terror equal to an earthquake. The picture seizes the cataclysm of 30 years ago to perform a sensational job. So realistic is the picture the spectator loses himself in contemplation of falling buildings, yawning chasms in the streets, sudden death to multitudes. The fire is not forgotten but plays second fiddle to the quake.

Of course, a story is needed to carry the spectacle. Time magazine reviews the picture facetiously—in part as follows:

"The reason for the San Francisco earthquake, as all cinemaddicts have long been well aware, was not a geological fault but rather certain unfortunate conditions in the city's night life. Before the Legion of Decency started, there was generally supposed to be white slavery, opium and hatchet-work in Chinatown. 'San Francisco,' bringing the earthquake up to date, makes it plain that its real cause lay in the fact that Clark Gable did not say his prayers at night. Gable is Blackie Norton, owner of a notorious cafe, and Miss MacDonald is his No. 1 chanteuse. Father Tim (Spencer Tracy) struggles to make a convert out of Blackie while Mr. Burley (Jack Holt) struggles to make an opera singer out of the chanteuse, so that she will be worthy of his manor on Nob Hill. The Burley plan is succeeding much better than Father Tim's when the bricks begin to rain."

Household Questions

Cut out old canes in raspberry bushes when they are through bearing fruit. These canes will never bear fruit again.

* * *

Cloths saturated with polishing liquids if stored away in a closet often cause spontaneous combustion. Keep these cloths in a covered tin container.

* * *

Lingerie must be tinted occasionally to preserve its dainty appearance. A faded blue garment will tint a delicate orchid with the aid of a pink dye, a pale yellow will shade into a delicate green if dipped in blue dye and a pink dye will change the yellow to a shell pink. Be sure to use small quantities of the dye for these pastel shades.

Oil or oily substances should never be used on waxed floors. They soften the wax, sink into wood and eventually darken it.

A pinch of baking soda added to the water in which a fowl is cooked will make it more tender.

A cup of peanut butter mixed with half a cup of mayonnaise and one finely chopped raw onion makes a good sandwich spread.

When making pastry use only enough water to hold ingredients together. Mix quickly, roll and handle as little as possible if you wish pastry to be flaky.

BOY GETTING INTO A TUB

By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

As Was Planned

Mark Twain's old home in the Connecticut hills—destroyed by fire some years ago—was built from the joint designs of his daughter Clara Clemens, and John Howells, son of William Dean Howells, novelist and critic.

"They did it," once explained Mark to a friend, "without any advice or instructions from me. I had every confidence in their taste and judgment and none in my own. I merely said I wanted three things—a room of my own that would be quiet, a billiard room large enough to play in without jamming the cues into the wall, and a living room forty feet by twenty."

He did also stipulate that the house should cost only a certain sum.

"And did it?" inquired the friend.

"Well," said Mark, "half of it did."

FRIENDS HONOR MISS ANDERSON

A delightful social affair took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson last Friday night when 10 Oakland and Palo Alto friends of their daughter, Jewel, were entertained at a dinner party in honor of her birthday. Miss Letty Israelson of Oakland, a friend, whose anniversary also falls on July 11, shared the honors with Miss Anderson.

The table with appointments of blue and silver was beautifully decorated with white stocks and tall white candles.

The evening was spent with cards and dancing.

Miss Anderson, who was graduated from Stanford in 1932 and received her master's degree the following year, is secretary to the office manager of the Frigidaire Co. in Emeryville.

Niles Theater Has Varied Bill For Next Week

NILES—Joe E. Brown, the human doughnut, is at his funniest this week at the Niles theater. "Sons o' Guns" is the title of the picture and the well-known Brown antics are all on display. The bill tonight is shared by Victor Jory in "Escape From Devil's Island," a film full of thrills.

On Friday and Saturday, that famous couple James Dunne and Sally Eilers appear in "Don't Get Personal." William Boyd also appears in "Three on the Trail."

Jack Oakie, the inimitable, will amuse his fans in "Florida Special," which comes Sunday and Monday, while the week's bill winds up with "Petticoat Fever."

"Petticoat Fever" tells the story of how love and trouble come to Robert Montgomery, who is stationed at a weather station on the coast of Labrador where he has not seen a white woman for three years. Theatergoers can imagine the fever that envelopes him when Myrna Loy drops in on him after a plane wreck. Eskimo women and Bob's old girl friend from home arrive to complicate the situation. It all turns out all right.

Famous Maps of Path to Young Woman's Heart

As one journeys along the Rhone in France from Avignon, it becomes an easy matter to explain the famous maps of the "Path to a Young Woman's Heart," which the Courts of Love, here in Seventeenth century, delighted in making.

Tarascon, down the river from Avignon takes in good part the sly fun poked at the character of the city's inhabitants in the tale, "Tartarin of Tarascon." The people of the town now go so far as to sell pictures of Tartarin on his expedition in the Alps, and some will even point out to gullible travelers the place where he lived.

Arles, also in this vicinity, is famed for its Roman antiquities. Its amphitheater is about 500 yards in circumference, has 43 tiers of seats and holds about 26,000 spectators. In the summer months it is the scene of many bull-fights. The old theater of Arles was also built by the Romans, although it was designed by a Greek architect.

Where the Rhone divides before entering the Mediterranean, it forms a salt delta, the Camargue, which is one of the most romantic regions of Provence. Flamingoes with pink feathers inhabit its marshes, herds of cattle roam its fields, and steer-roping and branding are a part of everyday life. The cowboys of the region are expert, and their small white horses are very intelligent, taking as lively an interest in the games of their riders as the men do.

Tradition says that here the three Marys, Mary of Bethany, Mary, the mother of James, and Mary Magdalen, with their servant, Sarah, landed when they sailed away from the Holy Land after the Crucifixion. Sarah, an Egyptian, has become the saint of the gypsies, and in May they congregate here in colorful throngs to worship in the Church of the Saintes Maries de la Mer.

Use of Veneer Is Age-Old Manufacturing Practice

Veneering is not a product of the machine age. It was used by the ancient Egyptians in making their furniture and has been considered the best manufacturing practice for more than 3,000 years.

The most beautiful figures in wood are often found in what is known as the "diseased" parts of the tree. That is, the tree may have been injured, developed a growth or some other "disfigurement" that gives to the cabinet-making trades some of the most beautiful patterns in wood design. These sections of the tree are carefully cut into sheets, glued into patterns by hundreds of pieces of strong tape and attached to the core wood. This is an extremely technical part of cabinet making and requires the services of a man well versed in the art.

If all table tops, for instance, were solid, they would not have near the attractiveness which veneers provide. One firm has a mahogany dining table the top of which looks like a ripple of stain ribbon, and furniture authorities have stated that this design probably would never appear again in all history.

With the present manufacturing processes there is little danger of solid wood warping. The only objection to solid-wood furniture is that it lacks the beauty of veneered furniture. The "straight wood," as it is called—generally taken from the trunk of the tree—is likely to be just what the name implies.

Start of Red Cross

An international conference met in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1864 to devise a code of hospital and ambulance rules and safeguards for use in warfare. The Red Cross societies are the outgrowth of this convention. A symbol and flag were needed to mark hospitals, ambulances and the persons carrying on this sort of work. The flag of Switzerland is red with a white cross. As a compliment to the nation in which the conference was being held, it was decided to adopt as the international relief symbol this same device with the colors reversed—a red cross on a white field. The cross, therefore, is heraldic rather than religious in origin, and it has never had any religious significance so far as the Red Cross organizations are concerned.

Thrives on Poison

Copper is supposed to be deadly poison to molds and other fungi; but Clifford L. Bedford, of the University of California fruit products laboratory, has found one form that thrives in even a saturated solution of copper sulphate. It does not feed on the copper salt, but can absorb nourishment from several kinds of sugar as well as from starch in the presence of the strong copper solution. Solutions of other copper compounds, as well as of salts of other heavy metals such as mercury, silver, cobalt and lead, were sometimes toxic to the fungus.

The Torrens system provides that the owner present in court proof of his ownership of the land. If the court finds the proof conclusive, it issues a decree to that effect and no claimants can upset the title. An assurance fund is provided out of which later claims are paid if they are established against the property.

UNEMPLOYMENT SHOWS DECLINE

That the California State Employment Service is succeeding every day in discovering available workers who may be most efficient in positions where there is a seeming scarcity of personnel with the exact qualifications desired is shown today in a survey of registered applicants submitted to Roy S. Stockton, chief of the service, by Fernando E. Harrison, statistical supervisor.

That survey shows that on July 1. there was a total of 194,228 unemployed persons registered with the state service. Of this number, 149,228 were men, including 14,467 war veterans, and 44,634 were women. Approximately 75 per cent of the total indicates relief status Harrison stated.

According to Harrison, the total is approximately 33 per cent lower than that tabulated on May 30.
